From: Om Organics <info@omorganics.org>
Date: Wed, 23 Aug 2006 23:55:02 -0700
To: info@omorganics.org

Here's this week's consolidated Harvest Availability List! This HAL is emailed each Wednesday (sometimes late night, ie Thurs)..... You can also access it online: <http://omorganics.org/downloads/harvestlist.pdf>.

New this week

Apples from Devoto Gardens, jumbo Brussels sprouts, fresh shelling beans, more hot peppers, celery hearts, navajo baby carrots, red muscat seedless grapes, ongoing Make-A-Deal Early Girls from Heirloom Organics...

Farm Tour & Tasting: Dirty Girl, Four Sisters, and Heirloom Organics Farms

Monday, August 28th, 7am-4pm
Presented by Seeds of Change and CUESA

Depart the ferry building and tour three organic farms. Hear about their sustainable methods for producing top quality vegetable, herbs, and flowers grown from organic seed; participate in a tasting of diverse crops; discover how the roots of sustainable agriculture begin with the seeds themselves. Includes continental breakfast, buses, tour, tastings. Please RSVP soon to Shannon Gomes: 415-984-6187, shannon.gomes@ketchum.com

Please Preorder!

Some farms have asked that you try to preorder what you'll need instead of buying impromptu cases at the market. They love accommodating you, but sometimes you're taking their market stock which they could sell at retail price. If you give them warning, they can pick extra and not lose the extra cash at the stand. (Some farms like Green Gulch are selling close to retail price to chefs anyway, as their stock is selling out.)

Ordering through Om vs Calling farms directly

If you'd like to use Om's consolidated ordering, it's the same old $10 service fee. Make one call to Om by 9am the day before pick-up, order from any or all farms on the list, and your goods will be held for you at the various farm stalls for pick-up.

If you already know these friendly farmers, most prefer that you call them directly. Contact numbers are below.

Delivery

Always here to help if you want help with farm deliveries or connections with good karma distributors.

Notes

- For a comprehensive Seasonal Chart or to see pics of the different varieties, check out OmOrganics.org, and click What's In Season.
- Please use the prices as a guideline. Farmers may lower them if you buy mass quantities, or they may simply vary slightly week to week.
- Mariquita and Star Route Farms are not included in the HAL. Contact either directly to sign up to receive their faxes. (Numbers below.)

Feedback

Do you love or hate anything at all whatsoever about the weekly harvest lists, intro emails, or anything?! Please speak up! It's all good.

How are prices determined?

Prices in the Availability List are set by each farm. Typically, farm prices are the same as – if not lower than – those of conventional distributors. If you find that they are higher than a distributor's, please let us know!! More often than not, farms don't track "market rates", and will often adjust their prices. Either way, buying direct benefits you with the best quality, freshest produce possible, and returns the sales price back to our local farmers and our own community.
